DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Duda (U.S. Patent No. 6,275,877).

3. Referring to claim 15, Duda teaches a method of performing a fly-by read operation, the method comprising the steps of:

reading data words from a memory device in a slave peripheral, wherein the each of the data words includes N bytes (see lines 25-29 of column 7);

incrementing a read pointer of the memory device each time a data word is read from the memory device (see lines 24-31 of column 13);

aligning the data words read from the memory device to a system bus (see lines 28-31 of column 13); and adjusting the read pointer at the end of the fly-by read operation (see lines 24-31 of column 13).

4. Referring to claim 16, Duda teaches the method further comprises the step of providing byte enable signals on the system bus using a direct memory access (DMA) controller, the byte enable signals corresponding with bytes of data words being transferred (see lines 13-64 of column 16).

5. Referring to claim 23, Petersen discloses operating the memory device in a first in, first out (FIFO) manner (see paragraph bridging columns 17 and 18).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 1-14 and 24-36 are allowed.

7. Claims 17-22 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The following references are cited to further show the state of the art as it pertains to system with systems that perform fly-by DMA and/or data alignment in data transfer operations:

U.S. Patent No. 6,662,258 to Lukanc et al. discloses fly-by DMA read and write operations, however Lukanc fails to disclose anything relating to alignment operations.

U.S. Patent No. 5,297,242 to Miki teaches alignment modules within DMA controllers, however Miki fails to teach read and write alignment modules located with a memory controller and a slave device as required by the claims.
